HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged nerves, leucorrhoea and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cures Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glenview, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901.
 I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and I washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fatter than I ever was before, and sleep good and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down through the day.

What Happened to Parson Elwes

Last November I was staying down at the little seaside village of Z. In the evenings I would often go and smoke my pipe in the tap-room and amuse myself by listening to the quaint conversation of the simple rustics who frequented it.

One evening—it was Nov. 4 in last year—I happened to say to one of them:

"Let me see—tomorrow's Guy Fawkes day. I suppose you have great goings on in the village, don't you?"

He shook his head solemnly and answered:

"Nay, nay, measter, we don't keep no Guy Fawkes day here. Used to do once upon a time, but it's been given up ever since what happened about Parson Elwes."

"What was that?" I inquired.

"Haven't you heard then?" he replied. "Maybe you'd like me to tell you?"

I signified assent, and settling myself comfortably in my chair, prepared to listen to what I knew from the old fellow's discursive style of narration would be a tolerably long yarn.

"Well, he began, 'it's a main long time ago—forty years as I reckon it—but I can recollect it all clear as though it had happened yesterday. Parson Elwes, he-wer' vicar of this parish. A fine young man he wer', too—strong and tall and lithesome as any one I ever see. Heart alive, how he could play cricket and run and jump! It wer' a sight to watch him. He wer' only twenty-seven; too young, I sez, for to be parson of a parish, for he hadn't got and couldn't have the experience of us poorer folk and our ways and feelings, which a parson ain't no use at all without."

"He wer' good in his heart, wer' young Parson Elwes, and meant as well as any one, but he didn't go the right way to work with us. He had newfangled notions about the services and would have this altered and that altered, all as headstrong as could be, never saying with your leave or by your leave to the wishes of the congregation."

"Well, we didn't like this, for we've always been old fashioned folk here, and the old fashioned ways had done very well for the likes of us. So we got into a regular feud with parson. And there sprung up another cause for discontent in parson's treatment of dissenters. He was always saying things ag'in 'em in his sermons, preaching about the deadly sin of schism and what not, until he not only stirred them up to wrath, but also a good many of the church folk as well, for there was hardly a family but where some wer' dissenters. And the people didn't like having it preached at 'em that their parents, it might be, or husbands or wives wer' in danger of the unquenchable fire."

"And so matters got terrible bitter betwixt parson and the people until by the 'me he'd been in the place a year many on us wer' ready to join in any mortal plan for spitting un."

"It wer' just as the 5th of November wer' coming on, and Farmer Scrivner—him as had Brook-leaze, where Farmer Giles do live now, and wer' the principal dissenter in the place—set on foot the notion of burning parson in effigy on Gunpowder day, with hooting and groanings and all sorts of insults."

"Well, measter, as I have said, folks was then just about ripe for spitting parson, and the proposal took on like anything. We went in for carrying of it out, regular heart and soul, and we made a figure just parson's height and size, and Bill Noddy, as wer' village tailor then, he made a suit of broadcloth just like parson wore, and all of us paid so much toward the value of the stuff. And then some one else went into town and bought a proper hat—parson's it wer' exactly—and when the figure wer' dressed up ready for carrying around and burning, shure it might almost have been taken for parson's very self."

"God bless my soul and body, how well I do remember that night! We carried the effigy along as far as the vicarage gate, and there we stopped and set up yelling and hissing. And Farmer Scrivner, he calls for three groans for parson, and we gives 'em and three times three afterward. Then parson comes out and tries to speak to us, but we drowns his voice with shouting and groaning, so that he goes in again and shuts the door."

"When we'd done that part of the job, we took up the dummy again and carried it on toward Brook-leaze, which is the highest point in the village, and where we wer' going to burn parson in effigy. Eh, what a scene it was—the great pile of fagots crackling and blazing, and parson's effigy a-thrown on the top, while every one was a-pelting it and poking it with sticks and groaning and hooting like a lot of savage beasts, and the flames and reddened smoke leaping up against the sky as eager as though they enjoyed their share in it all!"

"We kept this up for close on an hour, until the fire was almost burned out, and then a lot of the men among us came down here to the Ring o' Bells to wind up the evening with a drink. And we needed it, most on us, for our throats wer' well nigh raw with yelling. Farmer Scrivner, he wer' in great feather that night. He stood drink all round and laughed and jested about the burning of parson's effigy. And we all chimed in and joked and jeered merrily away until five minutes past 11 by that very clock [pointing to the old timepiece over the fireplace]—five minutes past 11! I remember the time as clear as though it wer' yesterday."

"Then all on a sudden Jem Sandford—he wer' the farmer's cowman—comes rushing in at yonder door, with his face all pale and startled like and sorely out of breath."

"Measter," he gasps, "Measter Scrivner, come quick! Thy house be on fire! I saw the flames bursting from the roof as I come along the road, and I've run straight to tell thee!"

"Farmer didn't wait to ask any more questions, but went off sharp for his house, and we all followed to give what help we could. We were sobered and made serious at once, I warrant you. As we ran toward the house we saw the flames breaking savagely from the windows of the upper floor and twisting and licking around the roof as the draft blew them first one way and then another."

"A few on us was going to turn the poor beasties loose when we was stopped by summit which at once turned our thoughts away from them and made us well nigh sick at heart w' dismay. For the rumor ran like lightning through the crowd that Farmer Scrivner's wife and her babe as had scarce been born a week wer' still in the upper bedroom, cut off from the rest of the house by the fire. And then we looks and sees her at the window waving her arms wildly for help and shrieking, poor soul, like one daft w' terror."

"A ladder!" goes the cry. 'A ladder! A ladder! But somehow there weren't no ladder to be found upon the spot, and while they was hunting for one and we was standing looking on in a sort of palsy like from helpless dismay a tall, dark figure bursts through us, brushing us aside like so many children, and begins to climb a pipe which ran down from the 'shoot-ing' of the eaves."

"We knowed the figure. Not another man in that place could have gone up that pipe so active and so strong. But the flames was darting right across it near the top, and we held our breath w' suspense whether parson, for all his strength and courage, would be able to get past. But he never hesitated or shirked—no, not a second. Nay, brave as a lion, and grasping the sill of the window, swung himself in."

"We didn't hoot him this time, I warrant you, but we set up such a cheering as, they told us afterward, was heard over at Revelsham yonder, ten good mile away. And our cheering didn't lose nothing when a minute or two later we seed him lowering mother and babe w' a rope of sheets and blankets safe into the score of arms stretched out below to take 'em."

"But the flames had gained terrible now, and all the roof wer' ablaze. Parson wer' in deadly peril, he wer', and we called to him to jump and save himself and we'd help to break his fall, and he wer' just about to when we seed him suddenly stagger back, choked, I suppose, by the thickening smoke, and the flames filled the window, and the roof groaned and swayed, then fell in w' a fearsome crash. And that wer' parson's end."

"We thowt that sparks from the ashes of the bonfire must have lighted on the thatch and so started the fire there. And that didn't make us feel less guilty like. But anyhow we've none of us had no stomach since then for keeping Gunpowder day, and I reckon we shan't have, leastways so long as Parson Elwes is remembered in Z."

How Rubber Rings May Be Softened.

The elasticity of rubber rings that have become hard and useless may be restored by their being placed for half an hour in a mixture of water and ammonia, containing about twice as much of the latter as of the former. Plunging them into water heated to 70 degrees is also said to be efficacious. All objects made of rubber should be kept in a cool, damp place at a constant temperature and sheltered from light, heat and frost.

"I am well now and enjoying better health than ever before in my whole life."

That is the statement of a woman who had never been well until she was made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There are a great many other women like this case. They have always been sufferers from disease. They have never known the joy of perfect health.

For all such women Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds out the prospect of perfect and permanent health, by the cure of the womanly diseases which weaken women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"It gives me pleasure to let you know of the great benefit received from Dr. Pierce's medicine and the advice which you so kindly sent," writes Mrs. Bertie Parker, of Bonham, Fannin Co., Texas. "I was a sufferer from 'Favorite Prescription.' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pills,' and followed your advice regarding the 'Lotion Tablets,' and am cured. I had been treated by different doctors and spent one hundred dollars for treatment and medicine, but I had bearing-down in lower portion of body and great pain all through my body. Pain in uterus was very severe. Had smothering spells, breath was very short all the time, had pain in stomach, pain in my thighs, pain in breast, also between my shoulders. Bowels constipated. I am well now and enjoying better health than ever before in my whole life. Am happy to tell you that I was cured by your good advice and good medicine, the 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Pleasant Pills,' and 'Lotion Tablets.' These medicines cured me and will cure others also."

The dealer who offers a substitute for 'Favorite Prescription' does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss, therefore accept no substitute. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pills regulate the bowels.

SONOMA, AUGUST 30, 1902.

H. H. GRANICE EDITOR

STATE UNIVERSITY BULLETIN

There are now 622 regular Freshmen in the University of California, or 96 more than August 28 of last year. This remarkable expansion has come about notwithstanding the increase in difficulties of the entrance examinations. The students applying for admission seem much better prepared than ever before.

The Freshmen are distributed among the various courses as follows: Letters—Men 18, women 49; total 67. Social sciences—Men 71, women 165; total 236. Natural sciences—Men 28, women 24; total 52. Commerce—Men 32, Chemistry—Men 36, women 7; total 43. Agriculture—Men 13, women 2; total 15. Civil engineering—Men 45. Mechanics—Men 58, women 1; total 59. Mining—Men 73.

Of the Freshmen, 60.4 per cent are men, and 39.6 per cent women. Two years ago the women students were 49 per cent of the Freshman class.

Daily gymnasium work under the direction of Professor Walter E. Magee, is required of every Freshman. Hearst Hall, a gift of Mr. Hearst to the University, is one of the best equipped women's gymnasiums in the United States, and the Harmon Gymnasium affords excellent facilities for the physical education of the men. Four days a week the Freshmen exercise in the gymnasium. Once a week the Freshmen hear a lecture on personal hygiene—on how to make the most of themselves physically.

The gymnasium work begins with the setting-up exercises such as are used at West Point and in the United States Army. Then comes work with dumb-bells, barbells, Indian clubs, chest weights, and the parallel bars.

Before actual work in the gymnasium is started, every Freshman is carefully examined by a physician, his heart and lungs tested, and all malformations and weaknesses noted. For such Freshmen as have any organic weakness or physical lack, special exercises are prescribed. The gymnasium is equipped with developing apparatus so planned as to furnish means of overcoming any remediable defect. The most complete and accurate measurements are made of every Freshman when he enters the University, and again at the end of the year. Data are also obtained from the student himself in regard to his own physical history, his parentage, and his constitutional tendencies. These records form an invaluable index of his physical condition and development.

The weekly required lectures on hygiene, by Dr. G. F. Reinhardt for men and Dr. Mary B. Ritter for women, include talks of a practical character on exercise, on the rational use of athletics, and on bathing, food, ventilation, sleep, cleanliness, and personal habits.

FOR THE ASSEMBLY

R. W. Miller, a prominent lawyer of Santa Rosa, was in town last Wednesday. Mr. Miller's name will be presented before the Republican convention which convenes in Santa Rosa next Wednesday as the nominee for Assemblyman from this district. He is a lawyer of wide experience, being a licensee of the Supreme Courts of Illinois, Minnesota and California. Mr. Miller has been a resident of this State for twenty-two years and is in every way identified with the interests of its people, particularly those of Sonoma county. He is a man of fine literary attainments, pleasing personality and in every way qualified to represent the people of the Fourteenth Assembly district in our State Legislature. If given a place on the Republican ticket he will give strength and dignity to it.

There is talk of removing Station Agent Reed as President of the so called Republican club in this place and substituting a better man. You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will. But the scent of the roses will cling to it still.

Hanging notices printed at this office. The very latest form.

The Daily Call and Index-Tribune $7 per year.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

The State convention of the Republican party of California has nominated George C. Pardee of Alameda as its standard bearer in the gubernatorial contest to be fought out at the polls on November 4th. Dr. Pardee was nominated on the sixth ballot by the Gage adherents, who gave him over 350 votes of the 518 he received, 416 being necessary to a choice. Following is the ticket nominated in its entirety:

Governor—George C. Pardee of Alameda.

Lieutenant Governor—Alden Anderson, Solano.

Chief Justice—W. H. Beatty, San Francisco.

Associate Justice—F. M. Angelotti, Marin.

Associate Justice—Lucien Shaw, Los Angeles.

Secretary of State—C. F. Curry, San Francisco.

Attorney General—U. S. Webb, Plumas.

Treasurer—Truman Reeves, San Bernardino.

Controller—E. P. Colgan, Sonoma.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Thomas J. Kirk, Fresno.

Surveyor General—V. H. Woods, San Luis Obispo.

Clerk of Supreme Court—Frank C. Jordan, Alameda.

Congress—First district, J. N. Gillette, Humboldt; Second district, Frank L. Coombs, Napa; Third district, Victor H. Metcalf, Alameda; Fourth district, no nomination; Fifth district, no nomination; Sixth district, J. C. Needham, Stanislaus; Seventh district, J. McLachlan, Los Angeles; Eighth district, no nomination.

Railroad Commissioners—First district, A. C. Irwin, Yuba; Second, no nomination; Third, Orrin Henderson, San Joaquin.

Board of Equalization—First district, no nomination; Second, Alex. Brown, Calaveras; Third, A. G. Meyers, Siskiyou; Fourth, F. Mattison, Santa Cruz.

Frank E. Dowd publishes his political card in another column.

He is the Democratic nominee for County Assessor and is out to succeed himself, having held the office one term. Frank is too well known down this way to need any introduction at our hands. Suffice it to say he has made a good Assessor, his politics to the contrary notwithstanding.

Glen Murdock of this place announces himself in another column as a candidate for County Treasurer, subject to the decision of the Republican county convention, which convenes in Santa Rosa on Wednesday, September 3d.

Mr. Murdock has lived all his life in Sonoma county and at present is the efficient principal of our High School. He is a young man of ability and sterling worth, and the only Republican aspirant that we know of in this township for political honors.

Chas. O. Dunbar of Santa Rosa, Democratic nominee for Assemblyman in this, the Fourteenth district, inserts his political card in these columns. Mr. Dunbar is one of the editors and proprietors of the Santa Rosa Press Democrat, the most readable paper in the county. In nominating him for the Assembly the Democratic convention could not have made a better or more strong selection. He is a young man of fine personality and prominent in everything pertaining to the welfare of Sonoma county.

Frank P. Grace, Democratic nominee for Sheriff, after a four years' incumbency, is in the field for reelection for another term. His party renominated him without opposition, which is a pretty good endorsement of his fitness for the position. It cannot be denied that Mr. Grace has made a fine Sheriff. The records prove this, and it behooves the Republicans to put up a strong man against him. If this man should be the genial Jack Smith the contest over the office of Sheriff will no doubt be a close and exciting one.

A NOVEL DISCOVERY

WATER THAT IS A SURE CURE FOR CORNS

Remarkable Properties of the Waters of Sonoma Valley Springs

Of the minor ills which afflict humanity probably there is none which causes more discomfort or is so generally prevalent as corns and bunions on the feet. Like the toothache, they rarely kill their victim and hence the sufferer gets very little sympathy. And about every third person has corns, too.

Sonoma county is famous for its many natural attractions and advantages, not the least of which are hundreds of health giving springs, the waters of which are a natural remedy for many ailments. And now comes the claim that we have waters which will eradicate corns. When once this fact becomes generally known, what a Mecca for those so tortured Sonoma is bound to become!

James Pieratt of Glen Ellen, who has resided in this valley for forty years or more and is one of the best known farmers in the northern part of the valley, under date of August 27th, writes to this paper as follows:

ME, GRANT—Dear Sir: A short time ago I read an account in your valuable paper, written by a local contributor over the non de plume of "Observer," wherein he claimed that he as well as a number of his friends had the corns removed from his toes by wading in the waters of the several creeks of the valley while trout fishing. Now, that reminds me that I had been a sufferer from corns and bunions for years. About four years ago I had occasion to take some baths in Boyes' Hot Springs. The baths were not taken to relieve my sufferings from the corns, but for other purposes. What was my surprise when I discovered that my corns had entirely disappeared a few weeks after bathing in the waters of these remarkable hot springs.

I had then corns removed a number of times by an eminent chiropodist of the metropolis, but they invariably returned. At one time I called on the late Dr. Boyce of Santa Rosa to amputate one of my toes, so painful were the corns on it. The doctor, however, fearing blood poisoning, refused to perform the operation. It was shortly after this I bathed in Boyes' Springs, with the result that I now have all my toes and no corns.

Recently I mentioned this incident to a number of employees of R. Porter Ashe's ranch near Glen Ellen, who were suffering from corns, and they tell me that after having bathed a few times in the waters of these springs they are cornless.

If you think this will prove of interest to your readers you may publish it.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES S. PIERATT.

TIME TO REGISTER

Voters Must Register by September 24

All voters in Sonoma county who want to vote at the election in November must register on or before September 24. September 24 is the last day for registration and October 9 is the last day upon which precinct changes can be made. It is imperative that every voter who has not registered since January 1, 1902, must re-register, the old Great Register having been cancelled.

There are still nearly 4000 registration affidavits to be received at the County Clerk's office. The registration affidavits have been coming in a little slow the past few days.

MISS THEO BATES IS WEDDED

Clarence Nauman Wins Another Prize—The Wedding a Very Quiet One

The many friends of Miss Theo Bates in this valley were surprised to learn Monday morning last that she had been quietly married the day previous to Mr. Clarence C. Nauman of San Francisco.

The young couple, it is true, were known to be engaged by the intimate friends of the two families in this place, but it was assumed that the wedding would take place at the home of the bride's mother in Sonoma. The contracting parties, however, elected otherwise. On Sunday afternoon last the young couple, accompanied by the mother of the bride, Mrs. M. Bates, and Mr. and Mrs. Nauman, mother and father of the groom, repaired to the Trinity Presbyterian Church, Twenty-third and Capp streets, San Francisco, where they were quietly wedded by the pastor of the church.

The same evening the newly wedded couple left for Southern California, where they will spend their honeymoon. They are expected to return to San Francisco to-morrow, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Nauman was one of the jolly girls of Sonoma. Vivacious and winning in manner, she was the most popular girl in town. Her marriage and departure from Sonoma will create a void in the ranks of the younger set which it will be hard to fill.

Mr. Nauman, the groom, is well known in this valley, having been a frequent visitor to the Bates home ever since he was a small boy. He is known all over the coast as a champion wing shot and has won more medals the past six or eight years than any other wing shot in the State. He is a well to do young business man of the metropolis and prominent in club circles.

EL VERANO HAPPENINGS

Ludwig Steiger was visiting his folks in Agua Caliente Sunday.

Supervisor Blair Hart of Lakeville was in town on business Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wyatt of Petaluma are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. Pilastre.

Mike Mullen, one of our local sports, bagged thirty doves and five rabbits one day this week.

L. L. Lewis left for Sacramento Monday after spending a few weeks on his ranch near here.

A. W. Weaver arrived home from San Francisco Sunday morning after spending a few days in that city.

Frank A. Riser and wife arrived home from Dillon's Beach last Saturday after an outing of two weeks at the seaside.

A. C. Chance, accompanied by his son Hugh, left for Dillon's Beach last Monday morning, where he will spend a few weeks.

Emmet Mullen, Deputy County Clerk for the registration of voters in this place, has been doing a rushing business this week.

Jos. Nevrumont, who has been attending bar for Adam Yenni the past three months, left for San Francisco Wednesday morning.

Miss Nellie Kenna and Miss Lizzie Roach, two charming young ladies from San Francisco, are spending the summer in this place.

H. H. Granice, the popular editor of the INDEX-TRIBUNE, was in town one day last week shaking hands with his many friends here.

Pastor Gouailhardou, brother of P. Gouailhardou of the Bellevue Hotel, is visiting that popular resort. He will remain about two weeks.

There will be a grand ball at the Bellevue Hotel Saturday night. This ball is to be given by the ladies of St. Francis' Booth in aid of the coming Catholic Fair, and will no doubt be a grand success. Everybody who wants to enjoy a fine old time should attend. "You Guess" will be there with bells.

Hugh Chance met with a thrilling accident one day last week. He was riding one horse and leading another and while passing over the bridge in front of the French Cotage the horse he was riding went through the bridge. Young Chance was thrown to the ground and in the mix up between man and steed and bridge his foot became entangled in one of the lines and he was dragged about two hundred feet by the frightened animal. The line, which held him firmly by the foot, then broke, which undoubtedly saved his life. Young Chance was picked up and assisted to the Bellevue Hotel, where his hurts, which are not of a serious nature, were attended to.

A laughable joke came out on one of our well known citizens this week. Late in a new well was dug in the public school house yard in this place. The contract for putting in the pipe was awarded to one of our citizens. Purchasing a quantity of 12-inch iron pipe, he had it hauled to the school house yard and lowered it right to the bottom of the well. Of course the water could not get into the pipe as it rested firmly on the hardpan. So this well-known citizen pumped and pumped, but there was no water. After wrestling with the well for four or five days the cause of the trouble became apparent and the well-known citizen was given the "hal hal!" "When 'You Guess' heard the joke he thought it good enough to print.

Andrew Diefenbach, the temporary Southern Pacific station agent at this place, is a great lover of animals and cannot bear to see a dumb brute suffer. One day last week a cow consigned to this place arrived in a cattle car. Mr. Diefenbach was sitting outside of the railway office and observing the animal was suffering from want of water entered the cattle car, which was side-tracked, and untied the cow essayed to lead her to a nearby watering trough. The animal gave a plunge and broke away from the kindhearted station agent. There was $7.80 due on "bossy" for freight and Mr. Diefenbach would be out that much in pocket if he did not succeed in recapturing the animal. Then commenced a wild chase after the hardhearted cow. Well, it was laughable to see the station agent run after that cow, which always managed to keep just a little ahead of him. After a chase lasting two hours several onlookers joined Mr. Diefenbach in the chase and the unruly animal was finally secured and led back into the cattle car without being watered. One of our citizens asked Mr. Diefenbach if it wasn't more fatiguing to chase a fairy than a cow, and the fly station agent replied: "Give me a summer girl every time. I want no more cows in mine."

Glen Ellen News Items

The Misses Monahan visited Sonoma Monday.

Steve Malone of Glen Ellen is lying very ill at the Malone home in Petaluma.

N. W. Griswold of Honolulu, formerly of Kenwood, spent Sunday visiting at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ashe of the Warfield ranch have returned to their home after a week's sight-seeing in the metropolis.

Mr. Ely, the Superintendent of the Glen Ellen coal mine, is again away on business and we are all on the qui vive wondering what he will spring on us next.

Conductor O'Rourke of the California Northwestern Railway Company gave a dinner party, one day this week, to a bevy of young ladies. He is the Beau Brummel of Glen Ellen.

Judge S. K. Dougherty of Santa Rosa and Alexander D. Laughlin, Democratic candidate for District Attorney, were guests at the Mervyn Hotel one day this week.

The lost boy has returned to his vine-clad wigwam on the hill after a sojourn of ten days in the city by the sea. He says "no more Rathbone Sisters in mine. The Glen Ellen Sisters are good enough for me."

The dance at the Mervyn last Saturday night was well attended and as usual a great success. Prof. Ping was graciously personified. A dance in Glen Ellen without Mr. Ping would be stale and flat. He takes all the girls away from from we chappies and is a great favorite with all.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy.

Dr. Charles H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well."

Vineburg Items.

Professor King of San Francisco is visiting friends at Vineburg.

Mrs. Voight, after several weeks of illness, is up and able around.

Miss Glazier of San Luis, accompanied by several of her pupils, visited the Berkeley grounds Saturday.

Just think, folks! we have the great pleasure of seeing the sweet smiling face of Jimmy O'Rourke, passing through this burg every day, and all the girls are smitten, so I hear.

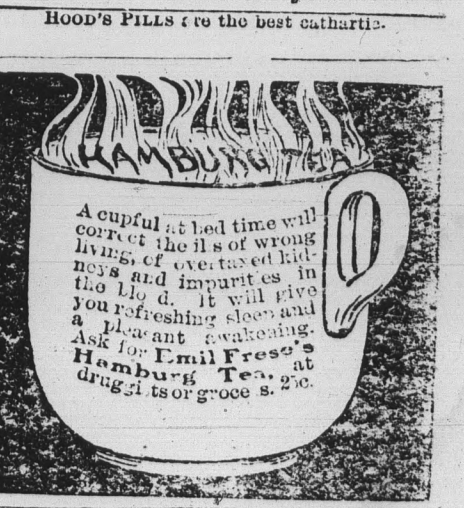

Look out for your dried fruit now, people. Sonoma valley is just full of thieves. Why, didn't Mr. right in this burg, give a certain fellow a dose of buckshot in his left hind leg?

A jolly crowd of young folks drove to Napa one day last week and visited the Springs. The crowd consisted of Misses Rose Zueger, Emma Mattern, Nellie Gordenker, Evelyn Wanganan, Helen Church, Eva Church, Messrs. Ed McKinnon, Henry McClure, James De Rountree, Carl Allenmore, Frank King, Bert Brown, and Mrs. Spaulding. The young folks report having a royal good time.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia. It makes life miserable. Its sufferers eat not because they want to, but simply because they must. They know they are irritable and fretful, but they cannot be otherwise. They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffiness, flatness, headache, heartburn and what not. The effective remedy, proved by permanent cures of thousands of severe cases, is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Hood's Pills are the best cathartic.

GOING BY ELECTRICITY.

Some Things the Trolley Car Conductor Must Be and Do.

The successful conductor joins to the chivalry and impressiveness of a policeman behind the silk counter, for persons who go home from clubs at 2 in the morning may have to be persuaded in six different ways before they offer anything to "ring up," says Charles M. Skinner in the Atlantic.

The conductor must keep fifty or sixty streets in mind. He must be sure to let the elderly lady off at the one she has been thinking of, and when she foils him he must not impeach her veracity if she "just knew" she told him. He must not allow the man who immerses himself in a newspaper to forget an obligation of 5 cents to the company. He must curb a natural inclination to embrace the wives of strangers when he lifts them up the steps. He must call the attention of forgetful persons to the fact that they are chewing tobacco or are drunk. He must arbitrate between the man who opens the window and the woman who wants it shut and shut it. He must insinuate himself up and down the aisle of his car without tipping standees into the laps of irascible bankers or treading on the corns of such as wear them.

And while others clutch at straps or dashboards or doorknobs or the cord he rings his fares with, with a sudden frenzy for action he must never lie down on the floor or lose his dignity. He can be philosophic after he grows used to it and find advantages in his wild career. As a conductor remarked: "The worst of going by electricity is it 'most shakes your liver out. But you never get dyspepsy."

Gypsy Notions About Mountains.

In some of the gypsy tribes living about central Europe the mountains are called "bar," "trags," or "michlyis," which last term usually means "clouds," "mist," the same name being applied to the clouds as the mountains, the latter being regarded as a kind of pathway to heaven. According to gypsy ideas the clouds are daughters of the mist king, and the lightning flashes the sons of the fire king, who would soar up high into space, but the wind king comes and drives them down to the earth, their grandmother. In their flight before the wind king the lightning and its progeny very often lose the road to their father, the fire king, who dwells deep in the earth, and fall prostrate in the wrong part of the earth, where they are changed to stones. Such lightning stones, known in Germany as thunderbolts and weather stones, are pushed out of the ground after nine years, and whoever finds such a stone on a mountain will be rendered lucky if he always carries a little bit of this stone with him.

The Grave of St. Swithin.

St. Swithin, by his express request, was buried in the open churchyard, "thinking no vault was so good to cover his grave as that of heaven." When he was canonized; however, the monks of Winchester took it into their heads that his body ought to have a more dignified resting place, and resolved to remove it into the choir, fixing the 15th of July for its solemn translation. It rained, however, so violently on that day and for forty days in succession that they abandoned their design as contrary to the divine will and instead erected a chapel over his grave, at which many miracles are said to have been wrought.

An Opportunity.

"And how is the poor lady on your first floor?" asked a fine dame who was district visiting. "Very sadly, ma'am," replied the lodging house keeper. "She'll hardly last over the night." "Dear, dear!" rejoined the sympathetic inquirer. "Is she conscious?" "Only at times, ma'am; just between the fits, you know." "Ah, yes, very sad; very sad indeed! Next time she comes to I wish you'd ask her the address of her laundress. She was a very good one, I recollect, and worked cheap." —London Tit-Bits.

Nothing Easier.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, a young couple recently married, were beginning their housekeeping and were doing the work of putting the rooms in order themselves. Mr. Bailey was having some trouble in hanging one of the presents, a fine clock, upon the wall of the dining room. "Why is it taking you so long, dear?" asked the young wife, "to put up that clock?" "I can't get it plumb," he replied. "Then why don't you send for the plumber?" she asked in perfect sincerity.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

The Events That Led One Man to Regard It With Suspicion.

"As to circumstantial evidence, it's a queer thing," said the man in the brown suit. "Five or six years ago I was in a certain town for a night when a bank was robbed. Next morning I was arrested as an accomplice, it being contended that I was seen idling in front of the bank and evidently acting as sentinel to those within. Three different persons identified me as the man, and a fourth claimed to have seen me enter the hotel at a late hour by way of a shed and a window. I was locked up for examination, with a chance of things going hard with me, when evidence began to come forward on my side. The landlord asserted and swore that I was sitting in the office at 10 o'clock p. m. Two servants swore they saw me going to my room half an hour later. A man having rooms opposite the hotel swore that he saw me smoking at my window at midnight. A guest of the hotel who had a room next to mine swore that my snores disturbed him from midnight till 2 o'clock and that he heard me turn over in bed at 3, and so I was honorably discharged from custody."

"But about its being queer?" was asked.

"Why, all the people on both sides were mistaken. I was not outside the bank at the time named, and neither was I in the hotel."

"But you were somewhere?"

"Oh, of course. Fact is, I got mashed on the landlord's daughter, and we sat up all night on a balcony and talked love and looked at the moonlight—yes, sir, sat there all night like a couple of idiots, and though I declared I would die for her and she said she only wanted me and a humble cottage, she was married to a red haired butcher within a year and I was being sued by a snub nosed widow for a breach of promise. I was simply observing, you know, that circumstantial evidence is a queer thing, and I wish to add that a juryman should not be influenced too much by it."

Remarkable Ideas of Beauty.

It is remarkable to learn the extraordinary ideas of female beauty which characterize different nations. The ladies of Arabia stain their fingers and toes red, their eyebrows black and their lips blue. In Persia they paint a black streak around their eyes and ornament their faces with representations of various figures.

The Japanese women adopt the singular method of gilding their teeth, and those of the Indians paint them red. In some parts of India the pearl of the tooth must be dyed black before a woman can be beautiful. The Hottentot women paint the entire body in compartments of red and black.

Spurgeon's Forcible Way.

Spurgeon sometimes carried dramatic action to a ludicrous excess in the pulpit. Mr. Haweis says that once in the middle of his sermon the preacher shouted out: "What's that thee says, Paul, 'I can do all things'?" So the preacher took out half a crown and put it on the Bible. "However," he continued, "let's see what the apostle has to say for himself." So he read on, "Through Christ that strengtheneth me." Oh, says he, "if that's the terms of the bet I'm off!" And he put the half crown back into his pocket.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker of Bookwiler, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by F. Durringer.

CURING A BALKY HORSE.

An Easy and Effective Remedy, Although a Bit Heroic.

"Only once in my life have I been stuck on a balky horse," said the old horseman, "and I worked a cure in a manner you may call heroic. Most horses balk out of pure cussedness. They won't move because they don't want to. This animal was all right until I got him home, and then he revealed all his meanness. Neither coaxing nor licking did any good. He'd go only when he took a notion to. I became disgusted with his tricks, and one day I drove him over to a country railroad crossing. There was quite a steep grade at the crossing, and I figured that he would balk on the tracks. For this reason I had hitched him to an old vehicle. True to my figuring, the beast came to a dead stop at the top of the grade and stood right across the rails. I left him there and got down and walked away for a few rods, as I didn't want to be hit by the splinters."

"It was forty minutes before I caught sight of a freight train down the road. The horse heard and saw it, and if I had coaxed him a little he would have moved on. I wasn't coaxing, however, and when he saw I wasn't he braced his feet, dropped his ears and determined to die game. As the whistle tooted I saw him trembling, and as the rails began to move he rolled his eyes, but he never moved till the cowcatcher picked him up. How high he went up I can't say, but he landed in a swamp with an awful thud, and pieces of the wagon rained down for five minutes after. I supposed the horse was dead, of course, and went back to the farm to say so, but within two hours he came limping home and asked to be taken in. In a week he was as good as ever, but what a change in disposition! He was like a boy after a good spanking, and although I owned him for five years after that, he never balked again. Now and then he seemed a bit inclined to, but all I had to do was to go 'Toot, toot, toot!' and he would drop his tail and ears and be good for the next three months." —Detroit Free Press.

Care of the Piano.

Every one has observed after purchasing a new piano that it soon takes on a dull, smoky appearance. To remove this use a fine sponge, tepid water and castile soap. Go over the case, a little at a time. The water alone without the soap will usually be all that is needed. A chamois skin as dry as can be wrung out of water should be used to dry the surface after using the sponge. For old pianos a polish of raw linseed oil (two parts), alcohol and best vinegar (one part each) may be applied with good results if care be taken to use a very little at a time and to thoroughly rub that little off. Shake the polish frequently, use soft cotton cloth, one piece to rub it on and a large clean piece to finish it off with. Bruises, usually on the front, can be taken off by rubbing with powdered pumice stone and water or with sapollo. Clean the keys with alcohol and water, equal parts.

Wasted Energy.

"Mad!" he exclaimed. "Of course I'm mad. I tell you what we need in this world is some good system of general thought transference or mind reading. You know how hard I worked to get Margaret."

"Just gave all my waking thoughts to the subject, neglected my business, and all that, and made a fool of myself generally."

"But you succeeded."

"Oh, yes; we were engaged. And now that we have exchanged confidences I find that she was working just as hard to get me, and it makes us both mad to think of the waste of effort."

Boracic Acid.

Boracic acid is an element of volcanic gases and is found in combination with various salts in the vicinity of active or extinct volcanoes in different portions of the world. Borax is largely used in glassmaking, in pottery glazing and enameling and medicinally for the treatment of external sores and ulcerations. It is valuable as an antiseptic and in Sweden is largely used in the preservation of meat and milk, producing, it is claimed, no unpleasant or unwholesome effects.

A Creative Force.

A man of experience and observation who has watched the development of advertising until it has become the very lifeblood of business enterprise affirms that advertising does more than attract from a given amount of trade a larger share to the advertiser. He finds that it creates new customers and also that it creates a demand for new or neglected products. It is a force without which no striking success is possible. —Philadelphia Record.
